DISCOVERING IRIC

WORD FROM THE DIRECTOR OF THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS INSTITUTE OF CAMEROON

Initially attached to ENAM, it was in 1971 that the Diplomacy programme became autonomous and the International Relations Institute of Cameroon (IRIC) was born and erected on the Obili hill.

The birth of this institution is the result of the will of the State of Cameroon to boost its young diplomacy in the face of African and global issues. Thus, the training framework for Cameroonian and African diplomats has over time become a diplomatic academy. IRIC is one of the first diplomatic institute in Sub-sahara Africa with a primary objective to promote international relations.

In order to keep pace with the changes on the international scene, the International Relations Institute of Cameroon (IRIC) has diversified its training programme while International Relations for Development is maintained as the common denominator. This is the motivation behind the following programmes:

- International Banking and Finance (BMFI)
- International Communication and Public Action (CAPI)
- Regional Integration and Management of Community Institutions (IRMIC)
- International Disputes (IC)
- International Marketing (MI)
- Francophonie and Globalisation
- CAD2D (International Cooperation, Humanitarian Action and Sustainable Development)
- International Security
- Cultural Diversity, Peace and International Cooperations

These programmes are run by a permanent team of internationally renowned lecturers and researchers, assisted by professionals as well as a team of dedicated support staff.

The Institute's campus is a place where different ethnic groups in Cameroon blend together in a friendly atmosphere, a place of exchange and expression of African cultural diversity where different nationalities cohabit harmoniously.

As an establishment of the University of Yaoundé II, IRIC is by tradition a place of meeting and exchange where distinguished guests from the Republic of Cameroon are received. In recent years, the following personalities have been received at the Institute.

- H.E. Moussa FAKI MAHAMAT, Chairperson of the AU Commission
- Dr. Vera SONGWE, Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA)
- Mrs Michelle BACHELET, United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights
- Mrs Michaël Jean, Former Secretary General of the OIF
- Mrs. Jendayi FRAZER, Former U.S. Secretary of State for African Affairs
- Mr Boutros Boutros GHALI, Secretary General of the OIF.
- Chief EMEKA ANYAOKU, Secretary General of the Commonwealth
- Brice HORTEFEUX, Minister of Immigration, Integration, National Identity and Co-development at the EU,
- Jean Michel Severino, Former French Minister of Cooperation
- JIA QIN LI, President of the National Committee of Chinese Consultative Conference
- Joseph DEISS, President of the 63rd General Assembly of the United Nations
- H.E Vladimir KUSHINOV, Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Russian Federation,
- KOFFI ANNAN, Secretary General of the United Nations
- H.E ABDOU DIOUF, Secretary General of the OIF and former President of Senegal
- Mr KOICHIRO MATSUURA, Director General of UNESCO.

Fifty years at the service of academic excellence and African Diplomacy, IRIC is perfectly integrated in the technopole of social sciences defined by the Rector, Prof. Adolphe MINKOA SHE as a strategic axis of the University of Yaounde II that consolidates its position in Africa and the world at large.

DEPARTMENTS AND TRAINING OFFERED

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The International Law Department was created with the appointment of its Head in 2005. In general, the International Law Department follows the operation of the International Litigation stream. The Department has, as permanent lecturers, Professors, Associate professors, Lecturers and Assistant lecturers.

Master's degree in International Disputes

The Master's degree in International Disputes is part of the general framework of programmes offered at IRIC, but it is specialised more on international mechanisms, institutions and procedures for the settlement of disputes relating to international law.

Purpose of the Master Programme

The ultimate aim of the Master's degree in International Disputes is to train specialists in international dispute resolution procedures, with a view to effectively defend the interests of Cameroonians and Africans. The aim is to have, in the long run, a pool of competent experts capable of competing on the local and international level. Finally, it is a question of establishing the autonomy of local expertise, avoiding the need for public and private actors to rely on costly external expertise.

The programme comprises 32 courses coupled with an internship report and a thesis. The aim of Teaching Unit 101 is to provide students with the fundamentals of International Relations. Units 102, 103 and 104 aim to deepen the students' knowledge on Public International Law and African International Law. Teaching units 105, 106, 204 aim to deepen students' knowledge in specialized and emerging areas of International Law. Units 201, 202, 203 and 205 are devoted to the techniques of international litigation in diverse fields of International Law, and the modalities of drafting documents in international cases. Teaching Units 107, 108, 206 and 207 deal with research, language and computer skills as well as with ethical and integrity issues.

Target: The Master's degree is open to holders of a Bachelor's degree in any law speciality, professionals in the legal profession are recruited on the basis of their degree or their professional experience equivalent to a Bachelor's degree and regardless of the Common Law or French law legal system.

Remarks : In the training, a balance is sought and safeguarded between the pedagogical approaches of Common Law and Romano-Germanic Law on the one hand, and the integration of new Information and Communication Technologies training tools. In the long run, there are prospects of ushering the Master's programme to other regions, in particular the Central Africa sub-region through distance learning.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS

The Department comprises two streams, namely: International Banking and Finance and International Marketing.

International Banking and Finance (BMFI)

This programme has been existing since 1994. The Master's degree in BMFI is part of the government's desire to adapt its training programmes to the multidimensional nature of international relations. This course specializes on international financial markets.

Purpose of the programme: To provide learners with decision-making tools and techniques. Understand that the financial product is a «global thing»: any financing, any investment becomes a product in its own right, i.e. a negotiable security and no financial condition should be considered as immutable.

Goal of the programme: To know in detail the components of international financial markets; to exploit the internationalization of financial flows; to understand that a financing or an investment, just like a raw material necessary for the production of the company, becomes a product in its own right, i.e. that it is the subject of a market, is stored, transformed and sold. It is subject to the same risks of depreciation and supply. In short, it must be subject to the same monitoring and the same search for optimization.

Objective of the programme: To provide trainings that are adapted to the professions of financial market and corporate treasury; To train experts in the specialities of international capital markets: international banking market, international issues market, derivatives markets, foreign exchange markets and operations, stock exchange markets and operations, banking techniques, financial risk management instruments; To have at one's disposal the tools of international payments: participation of companies in international exchanges, definition of payment methods, securing of collections and optimization of cash management.

Target : Students with a minimum of a Bachelor's degree or equivalent in Economics or Business Law Management. Workers with the required level or equivalent.

DEPARTMENT OF INTEGRATION AND COOPERATION FOR DEVELOPMENT

Regional Integration and Management of Community Institutions

The mobilisation of economic, political, social and cultural strategies in the context of the emergence of Economic Partnership Agreements-EPAs requires that competitive policies be implemented first at sub-regional level. Then with the RECs (Regional Economic Communities) of Africa and the European Union. This will benefit Cameroon, which signed EPAs without CEMAC states. These dichotomies in terms of integration policies require that this training offer be implemented in order to harmonise development policies. The Socio-economic opportunity of the Master's degree strengthens expertise on common trade policies, common integration policies and environmental policies.

Purpose and Goals of the programme

The Integration and Development Cooperation programme aims to produce specialists capable of mastering African international policy with unique expertise in the field of integration and development cooperation..

Throughout the training, experts will be confronted with the mastery of institutional policies, management policies and project set-up, environmental governance policies, development policies, economic policies, social policies, community policies, socio-anthropological dynamics and security and strategic policies. All of these under the supervision of experts recruited from the most appropriate academics and professionals.

Goals of the programme:

- To train experts and specialists in international development relations with a focus on integration and cooperation for development,
- Train consultants for IGOs, development NGOs and local institutions
- Link African states to the requirements of globalization, and prepare experts to cope with competitive nature of international relations.

Target: Students with a minimum of a Bachelor's degree or equivalent, in economics or management, law, political sciences, humanities and workers with the required or equivalent degree in Economics or Management.

The programme consists of 42 courses alongside an internship and a thesis.
